EDULETICS INTERNATIONAL A BRITISH SCHOOL

Message from Principal

Dear Readers

When the school gates swung open after the summer break, it was not merely a reopening of a building—but a rekindling of its soul. Without the students, our campus feels like a stage awaiting its actors or a canvas devoid of colour. It is their laughter that fills the corridors with music, their questions that ignite the air with purpose and their presence that breathes meaning into every corner.

What strikes us with quiet awe is how swiftly our young learners transitioned from the rhythms of rest to the cadence of academics. The vacation, rightfully earned after a rigorous Pre-Mid Term schedule, was not just a pause – it was a healing interlude for both child and family. It offered moments of reconnections, stillness and joy-ingredients as vital to growth as any textbook.

Upon their return, our students have surprised us yet again with their clarity, concentration and commendable willingness to resume their scholastic voyage with poise and purpose. This ability to pivot, to recalibrate after a season of rest is a strength we deeply admire and continue to cultivate.

On 21st June, our faculty came together to observe International Yoga Day—an occasion that reaffirmed our commitment to holistic education. Though a brief observance, it reminded us of the quiet power of mindfulness and the enduring connection between wellness and wisdom. We believe such occasions are not mere events but the seeds planted in young minds etch indelible impressions for a lifetime.

We would also like to extend our heartfelt thanks to all the parents who attended the first Parent-Teacher Meeting of the academic year 2025-26. Your presence was not only encouraging but profoundly meaningful. Every suggestion, every conversation becomes a stepping stone in our shared endeavour to sculpt young minds with care and clarity. Your involvement empowers us to refine our efforts and deepen our understanding of each child's evolving needs.

Thank you once again—for walking beside us, for believing in our mission and for helping us turn ordinary school days into extraordinary learning journeys.

International YOGA Day

POSTURES OF PEACE

On International Yoga Day, the school grounds transformed into a haven of serenity where our dedicated teachers became the embodiment of balance and grace. With unswerving poise and calm composure, they performed a series of asanas—each posture portrayed a quiet tribute to inner strength and discipline. Their soulful participation lent the day a rare charm, turning it into more than just a celebration—it became a gentle reminder of the harmony between body, mind and spirit. The morning's stillness, punctuated by the rhythm of breath and movement left an imprint of peace and purpose making the day truly memorable for all who witnessed it.

Yoga is the journey of the self, through the self, to the self.

Yoga teaches us to cure what need not be endured and endure what cannot be cured.

The best learning happens when the child's two worlds—home and school—walk together.

At Eduletics International A British School, we believe that a Parent-Teacher Meeting is not merely a formal engagement—it's a meaningful celebration of partnership. Much like a festival, it brings together two vital pillars in a child's life—the home and the school. The conversations between parents and teachers unfolded with honesty and insight. While teachers offered a glimpse into the child's scholastic journey, learning habits and classroom conduct, parents enriched the narrative with personal perspectives, emotions and aspirations. Together, they decoded not just marks but the meaning behind them.

A PTM is where minds meet and hearts align—for the child at the centre of it all.

What made the day truly enriching was the spirit of mutual respect and listening. Teachers gained a clearer understanding of the student's world beyond school walls, while parents left reassured, not just by numbers, but by the nurturing ecosystem that supports their child. The PTM was a gentle reminder that when educators and parents walk hand in hand, learning becomes not just a goal-but a journey anchored in trust and togetherness.
