From the Principal's Desk

Dear Readers,

March unfolded as a month of vibrancy, reflection, and achievement within the school. It brought together moments of celebration, meaningful interaction and purposeful preparation, each contributing to the holistic growth of the school community.

The month began on a joyful note with the celebration of Holi, where the teaching staff of EBS and OMK came together, embracing the spirit of unity and togetherness. The exchange of colours, traditional songs and shared laughter created an atmosphere filled with warmth and positivity.

This was followed by the Parent-Teacher Meeting, which served as an important platform for collaboration between parents and teachers. Meaningful discussions around students' progress, along with the recognition of high achievers, reflected the shared commitment towards academic excellence and overall development.

Adding to the academic focus, the Bridge Course for students of Grades 10 and 12 provided an early start to the upcoming session. With dedicated guidance from teachers, students were able to strengthen their fundamentals and approach the new academic challenges with greater confidence.

The month concluded on a note of pride and accomplishment with the Annual Meeting. The successful achievement of the year's target — "Teach, Interact, Learn and Write" — was celebrated, along with the remarkable academic performance of students. A special highlight was the recognition of teachers, who were felicitated by the Director Sir for their dedication and outstanding contribution.

March, thus, stood as a perfect blend of celebration and achievement — a reminder that growth is not only measured in results but also in the efforts, connections and experiences that shape the journey.

Sincerely,

A. Awasthi

Dear Reader,

The month of March is an amalgamation of many things. Spring is back in its thrill and splendour, wrapped in variegated sheds of Holi. It's another thing that in this jungle of concrete, we are bereft of realising its rejuvenating touch.

Let's pray it stays alive in our hearts in the form of some fresh idea twitching its tail every now or then, or as a beautiful inspiration in the form of a creative spirit.

This month is also synonymous to a session coming to an end. Exams over, and the results out through the PTM's , preparations begin for the arriving one.

A lot of preparations need to be done ensuring every cog in the wheel of the system works smoothly to ascertain a pleasant journey ahead.

Annual Meet also gives the final week the necessary stir as people with leadership skills are provided new opportunities to prove their mettle. Thus the month remains a huddle of various activities that give shape to its contour.

Let's enjoy reading this issue till we meet again at the end of the coming month.

Yours truly,
The Edit Team

The celebration was marked by cheerful interactions and moments of shared happiness, offering a refreshing break from routine. It concluded with light snacks, leaving behind fond memories for all.Overall, the event beautifully captured the essence of harmony, positivity, and festivity within the school community.

Bridge Course – Preparing Students Ahead

Taking a proactive step towards academic readiness, the school organised a Bridge Course for students moving into Grades 10 and 12 for the upcoming session 2026–27. Conducted prior to the new academic year, the initiative aimed at giving students a head start in their learning.

During the course, teachers worked closely with students to revise fundamental concepts, clear doubts, and strengthen their basics. The focused guidance helped in bridging learning gaps and building confidence among students.

The programme also familiarised students with the academic expectations of board classes, encouraging disciplined study habits and reducing future academic pressure. By introducing this course in advance, the school ensured that students were better prepared to begin the new session with clarity and confidence.

VISIT OF PRE PRIMARY WING STUDENTS TO EBS

From March 11th to 13th, the students of Pre Primary Wing visited Eduletics International, a British school. Their main purpose was to explore learning through a variety of engaging activities. During the three-day excursion, the young learners enjoyed palm-printing by pressing their hands onto a scroll of paper, listened to engaging stories told by their teachers, learned about the parts of plants using life-sized models, watched movies, and took part in many other educational activities. Here are some of the memorable moments from their delightful visit...

Parent-Teacher Meeting

Strengthening the School-Home Partnership

Continuing the momentum of meaningful engagement in the month of March, the Parent-Teacher Meeting (PTM) for Grades K1 to 9 and 11 was conducted successfully, fostering a strong connection between school and home. The meeting focused on students' overall academic performance, behaviour, and development.

Parents actively interacted with teachers, gaining valuable insights into their child's progress, strengths, and areas for improvement. Teachers shared feedback on academic achievement, classroom participation, discipline, and co-curricular involvement, ensuring a well-rounded understanding of each student.

A proud highlight of the meeting was the recognition of high achievers, as several students were awarded appreciation letters for securing 90% and above. Parents were also guided on supporting their children at home, particularly in building consistency, time management, and overall development. Overall, the PTM proved to be both productive and insightful, strengthening collaboration and reinforcing the shared commitment towards students' growth and success.

PREPARING FOR THE NEW ACADEMIC SESSION

As the academic year draws to a close and the final Parent-Teacher Meetings (PTMs) commence, schools are witnessing a bustling scene: the distribution of new books and stationery. While some may view this merely as logistical convenience, distributing books immediately following the final PTM is a strategic, educational, and emotional investment in a student's success. The shift toward aligning book distribution with PTM days—often termed "Book Week" or "Orientation Day"—is a welcome change. It represents a shift from administrative hassle to purposeful collaboration.

A significant advantage is the elimination of the "last-minute scramble" for books in the final days of vacation. When students have their books early, it removes a layer of anxiety from the beginning of the new academic session. It also offers an opportunity for a "soft start," where children can flip through new subjects, explore vibrant illustrations, and feel genuine excitement about learning new things.

However, for this to be truly effective, our school prioritises a smooth and organized process. We use scheduled time slots, and pre-packaged sets based on online payments, ensuring a hassle-free experience.

ANNUAL MEETING

Celebrating Achievements and Setting New Milestones

Marking the successful culmination of the academic year, the Annual Meeting was conducted to review students' overall performance and reflect on the goals achieved. The session highlighted the school's annual target — "Teach, Interact, Learn and Write" — which was successfully accomplished through consistent efforts.

"Excellence is not an act, but a habit." - Aristotle

A comprehensive overview of students' academic progress revealed encouraging results across all grades, with the remarkable achievement of 100% success, as no student failed. This reflected the effectiveness of the teaching-learning process and the continuous support extended by the school.

A major highlight of the event was the recognition of teachers for their outstanding performance. The Director Sir felicitated and awarded teachers as a token of appreciation for their dedication and hard work. The teacher performance reports were also highly impressive, further showcasing their commitment to excellence.

The meeting also marked the introduction of the new annual theme, setting a clear vision for the upcoming academic session.

Overall, the Annual Meeting stood as a moment of pride and reflection, celebrating achievements while paving the way for continued growth and success.
