June 2026

Principal's Desk

Dear Readers
Greetings!

June is often the month when school corridors come alive with cheerful greetings, hurried footsteps, shared stories and the familiar rhythm of learning. Yet this year, the silence across our campus has felt unusually profound. Owing to the continued administrative directives, our school premises remained closed throughout the month and we continued to await the joyful return of our students.

A school is far more than its classrooms and walls. It is a living space animated by the energy, curiosity and innocence of children. In their absence, every corridor feels quieter and every classroom feels incomplete. We deeply miss the laughter that once echoed through the halls, the eager hands raised in curiosity and the vibrant spirit that gives meaning to each school day. Their presence is not merely cherished; it is the very pulse that gives life to our institution.

Even though the school gates remained closed, the journey of learning continued uninterrupted through our online classrooms. With remarkable sincerity and thoughtful effort, our teachers ensured that meaningful learning remained constant. These virtual sessions became spaces of dialogue, discovery and connection, where students continued to display admirable adaptability and a genuine eagerness to learn. Their participation has reminded us that true education does not depend solely on physical spaces; it thrives wherever minds remain curious and hearts remain engaged.

This month also reaffirmed our commitment to creating a learning environment where every child feels supported, valued and understood. We continue to remain attentive to diverse learning needs, ensuring that each learner receives the guidance and encouragement needed to progress with confidence. The observance of International Yoga Day by our faculty further reinforced the importance of mindfulness, inner balance and emotional well-being as essential dimensions of holistic growth.

To our dear parents, we offer our sincere appreciation for the trust, patience and understanding you continue to extend to us during this period of waiting. During these quiet weeks, one belief has grown even stronger within us that a school does not truly come alive through infrastructure or routine but through the immeasurable warmth children bring into it. Though our campus stands still, it is not empty; it is filled with anticipation, preparation and a deep longing to welcome every child back. Until that moment arrives, let us continue to move forward with hope in our hearts and purpose in our efforts, while remaining assured that the strength of a school community is measured not only by togetherness in presence but also by togetherness in spirit.

With regards

International Yoga Day

Grace in Stillness

On the eve of International Yoga Day, the teachers of Eduletics International A British School transformed the celebration into a truly inspiring experience through their dedication, grace and collective spirit. With beautifully designed yoga postures, artistic decorations and a vibrant backdrop prepared with thoughtful effort, they made the occasion remarkably special. Their elegant participation in various yoga asanas reflected not only physical flexibility but also discipline, harmony and inner strength. Every posture they performed became an effulgent expression of balance, mindfulness and self-awareness, making the event deeply meaningful and memorable.

International Yoga Day reminds us of yoga's timeless power to nurture equanimity of mind, strength of body and peace of soul. For teachers, yoga becomes a path to invigoration enhancing focus, fortitude and emotional balance. Their wholehearted participation beautifully reflected a synergetic spirit of wellness, inspiring everyone to embrace healthier and more mindful living.

*"Yoga is the silent symphony where the body moves,
the mind stills and the soul awakens."*

"True strength is not only in movement, but in the serenity that movement creates within."

"A teacher grounded in balance and mindfulness becomes a beacon of wisdom and grace."

"Yoga teaches us that harmony within ourselves creates harmony around us."

Training Pedagogy in Practice

A highly enriching session on Teaching and Learning Styles was recently conducted by the distinguished guest faculty from Open Minds A Birla School, Kankarbagh. The session offered valuable insights into the diverse ways learners absorb and process knowledge, highlighting the importance of adaptive and thoughtful teaching practices.

The teachers participated with remarkable perspicacity and enthusiasm, engaging deeply with the ideas and activities presented during the session. Their active involvement reflected a strong commitment to continuous growth and pedagogical excellence. The training served as a powerful reminder that effective teaching flourishes when educators remain reflective, receptive and ever-evolving.

“Great teachers never stop being learners; growth begins where curiosity endures.”

"Effective teaching is not merely delivering lessons, but understanding how minds learn differently."

Online Classes...

Screens, Smiles, Success

When the scorching summer heat grew relentless and physical classrooms had to momentarily pause, learning at Eduletics International A British School found a new rhythm rather than a halt. Even as the weather posed an unexpected impediment, the spirit of education remained indomitable, seamlessly flowing from classrooms to screens. The online classes became a beautiful manifestation of the school's steadfast commitment to learning, where distance and climate failed to dim the light of knowledge.

What stood out most remarkably was the students' admirable transition from vacation mode to academic engagement. With striking alacrity and quiet aplomb, they embraced online learning with enthusiasm, discipline and curiosity. Their cheerful presence on screen, attentive participation and eagerness to reconnect with lessons reflected not merely adaptability, but a profound sense of responsibility. These moments beautifully reaffirmed that true learning surpasses walls, weather and circumstance. It flourishes wherever young minds remain eager to grow.

"When classrooms closed their doors, learning opened new windows."

*“Neither distance
nor weather can silence minds
eager to learn.”*
